WEAKFISH AND FROSTFISH

"No creature could have a name which could sound any worse than mine does," said the weakfish. "Of course, people like me. Yes, I'm a popular fish. They welcome me when I first appear in the spring, and they like me right through the summer."

"They are also glad when I stay late in the autumn. Now, you know I'm nice to look at, for I'm a fish that cares about its personal appearance."

"By that I mean that I do not look any old way at all. You know some creatures will look so uncared for somehow. They will look dirty and untidy and far from attractive."

"They will walk in an ungraceful fashion and not pay any attention to charm, nor to grace."

"True, I cannot walk at all, but when I move I am full of grace, which is more than can be said for many, when they walk."

"If I did walk I would be graceful about it. I'm graceful when I move. Maybe I have said that before. I don't know."

"Even if it is said that it makes brains to eat fish, I do not understand it. I don't think we're so very brainy. But anyway I was talking about our personal appearance!"

"We wear handsome silvery costumes. Oh, very pretty, indeed. We're soft and pleasant and do not weigh too much, nor are we so small that we don't amount to anything."

"In fact, we're just right, weighing from one to four or five pounds, each. A pleasant weight, the weakfish thinks."

"We love the warm water. Summer is the time for us. Of course, some of us do stay around in the autumn, but the fish that likes the autumn is the frost fish."

"There is the creature that likes the cold weather and he swims close to the surf line and risks the danger of being dashed upon the shore on the chance that he will catch a sand eel."

"He is perfectly mad about sand eels—quite mad about them."

"I don't mean that he is angry about them. I mean he is so very enthusiastic about them."

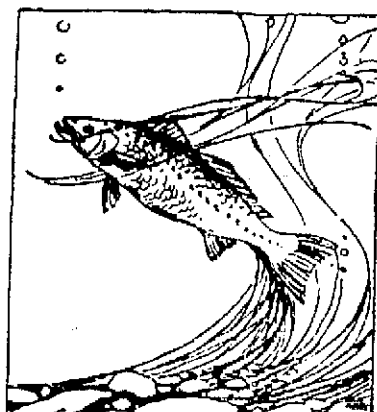

"Sand eels are little fish and they're about in the chilly weather, too."

"Now frost fish is an ugly creature with an enormous mouth and pointed big teeth—ugly teeth and an ugly mouth and has three fins which show prominently on his back. They're the fins known in fish talk as the dorsal fins."

"Everyone has noticed them on the members of the goldfish family—not the same kinds of fins as the frostfish has, but dorsal fins, I mean."

"The frostfish is caught in great numbers in nets while close to where the surf is breaking along by the ocean. That is where they are looking for the sand eels which they are so fond of, as I've said."

"But when I say that the frostfish is so fond of the sand eels, and when

"Good to Look Upon."

I say people are fond of the frostfish, and when I say we are very popular, you must understand me."

"The frostfish like the sand eels to eat. People like the frostfish as food!"

And we're popular because we're good to eat! Perhaps you wouldn't call that being popular. I don't suppose so. But it means we're liked in that way."

"If one called a boy in school popular, I don't suppose they'd mean that everyone would want to eat him and his kind."

"But we have something most interesting about us. We belong to the family of croakers. This family name has come from the family habit of making croaking sounds. Yes, we have voices."

"Of course, some might not like our voices. But at least we can make goodly drumming sounds, and when we go along in a school—you know they speak of a school of fish—we drum, drum, drum and make a great old noise."

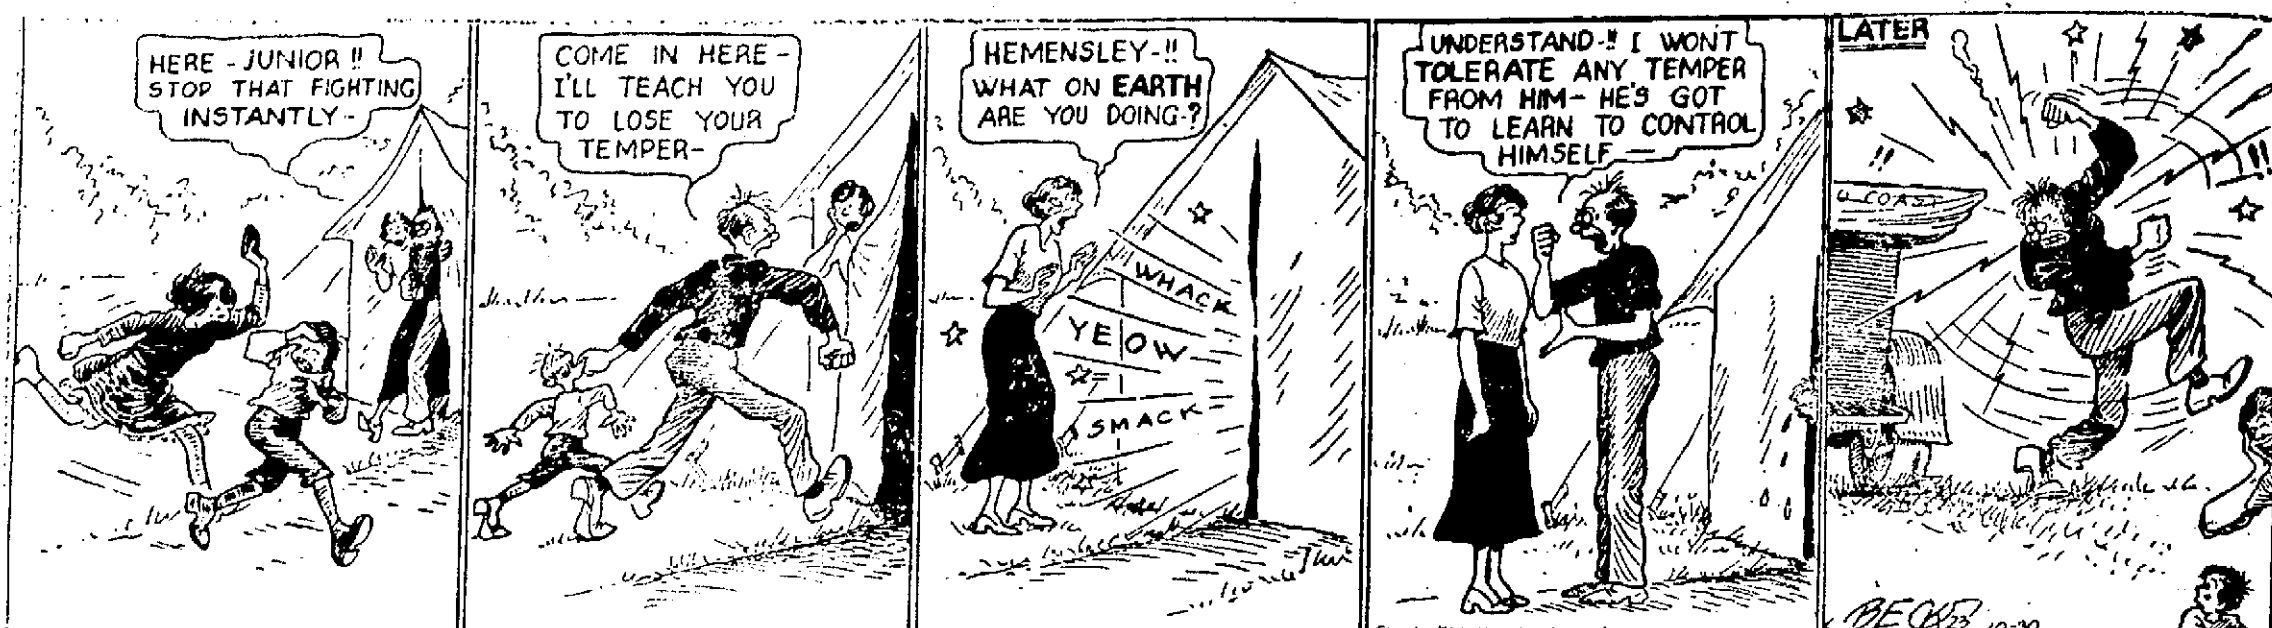

"So though the name of weakfish is a dull name, it doesn't matter, for we belong to the family of croakers, and that pleases us. Then we are good to look upon and that pleases our fish vanity."

"And now I've told you my story—or told it so that it can be passed on to you, and I am sure I've done all that is expected of me or any weakfish. In fact, I've had a good deal of strength of character to tell all this story without making you have to once pull out a bone!"

"But of course this is my story—not my fish meat!"

Hominy and Horseradish Croquette.—Take one-fourth of a cupful of hominy, steam it until tender, add one-half teaspoonful of salt, three-fourths of a cupful of milk scalded, and cook with it until absorbed. Add two tablespoonfuls of butter, three and one-half teaspoonfuls of grated horseradish root. Cool, shape, dip into crumbs, into egg, crumbs again and fry in deep fat. Drain on brown paper.

Pour into a slightly buttered pudding dish and bake in a moderate oven twenty-five minutes. Serve with a custard sauce well chilled.

Put a slice of ham in a frying pan, cover with lukewarm water and let stand an hour. Brown four tablespoonfuls of butter with four tablespoonfuls of flour and stock, then add the veal and ham cut into cubes and simmer twenty minutes. Cover with pastry and bake.

Baked Crumbed Potatoes.—Force hot boiled potatoes through a ricer; to three and one-half cupfuls add three tablespoonfuls of butter, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt and one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper. Add two-thirds of a cupful of hot milk and beat the potatoes vigorously. Turn into a buttered baking dish, pour over one-half cupful of heavy cream, sprinkle with coarse crumbs and bake until brown.

GERMAN CABINET FLOUNDERS ALONG

Procedure Toward Saxony Likely To Cost Support Of Peoples' Party—Dr. Heinze Issues Statement.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, Oct. 20.—The "Grand coalition" which took the German political parties five years to form, was near collapse today after a short, stormy life, replete with crises, each of which drove them to the Socialists. Democrats and the German People's Party are two political bedfellows that cannot get along in harmony and peace.

The Berlin government's procedure toward Saxony has been such a slap in the face to the Socialists that the latter cannot take it calmly without committing political suicide.

The executive committee of the Socialists will meet tomorrow when the resignation of the Socialist ministers may be demanded. However they may hold on, resigning later, thus leaving the field free for a military dictatorship of the Right—exactly what Bavaria and the other nationalist allies throughout Germany have been driving for.

The Socialist organ, commenting upon the political situation, said:

"Like, in the blackest day of reaction, the watchword of our party today must be: 'Comrades, keep calm and quiet, no matter how much the enemy may provoke you.'"

"A game is being played upon the political chess board of Germany in which a single false move may be fatal."

It was revealed that the ultimatum to Premier Zepfner of Saxony, was not sent as the result of a unanimous cabinet decision but upon Chancellor Stresemann's own responsibility, invoking article forty-eight of the Weimar Constitution.

President Ebert gave the chancellor authority, but added that execution first must be approved by the cabinet. Stresemann overrode the cabinet.

Minister of Defense Brücker, whose demands were defied by Saxony, and who ordered the Reichswehr into Saxony has been taken ill at a most inopportune moment.

Dr. Heinze, who was appointed commissary for Saxony by the Berlin government, issued the following exclusive statement to International News Service at Dresden:

"In accordance with article 48, of the Weimar constitution, President Ebert has dissolved the Saxon government and appointed me to be state commissary for Saxony. My main task in conjunction with general Von Mueller, commander of the Reichswehr, is to restore order and security in Saxony, break up the wave of terrorism and bring about normal life for the government and the industries. The first necessity is to inquire the foreign populations will try to rally all factors to be loyal to the constitution. I am making an effort to form a new Saxon government upon a constitutional basis."

PLETINA AND ZIVSKO WHISTLE 2-HOUR DRAW

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 20.—After two hours and thirty minutes of suspenseful action, the wrestling bout between Pletina and Zivsko, which was given at a draw by the Saxon government, ended in a draw. The referee, after the bout, declared that the bout was a draw, and that the bout was a draw.

THE AMENDMENTS.

The five proposed amendments to the state constitution and the one proposition to be voted on are printed in full in The Freeman today. Read them over. If you have the time, and vote on them intelligently. If you have not the time to do this, vote anyway "yes" on the proposition, which will be printed in the lower right hand corner of your ballot. On Amendment No. 1 you have as much information as The Freeman has. If you think the World War veterans should have a bonus and the state can afford to pay it, vote "yes." If your opinion is that they should not have a bonus or the state cannot afford to pay it, vote "No." But do not forget to vote "Yes" on Proposition No. 1, the last on the ballot.

As in the other five amendments, they are either pernicious or needless and you will make no mistake if you vote "No."

CONSERVATION OF GAME

Some months ago the lament of a North Carolina editor that the game in his state had been largely destroyed, as a result of ineffective or unenforced game laws, brought forth a statement in the Philadelphia Record that there is now more wild life in Pennsylvania than there was 50 years ago. Speaking on the authority of members of the Game Commission, the Record showed that deer and bear are more plentiful than for a long time and that some wild creatures, such as the elk and beaver, which had become extinct, have been restored and are increasing in numbers. Reasonably enough all this was attributed to the more effective enforcement of the game laws, the establishment of reservations for the protection of wild life and the conservation of forests serving as sanctuaries for both birds and beasts.

Such improvement in conditions has been reported from a number of the older states wherein the old time ruthless slaughter of game in and out of season has long since been stopped. Maine's game commissioner, for example, reports his woods as full of wild animals. A summary of his report shows ruffed grouse to be very plentiful, and further "Duck have more than doubled" along the Maine coast in a few years owing to the migratory bird law passed by Congress. Deer are increasing, poaching has been checked, and the Commissioner says that in a hurried trip down the Allegheny in July he saw 229 deer compared with 57 two years ago. Another party later reported having seen 395 deer before it reached the mouth of the Allegheny. On an old tote road near Mt. Katahdin a game warden in one day counted seventy partridge, seven deer, one bear and two moose. Of course states vary in the extent of forests and swamps serving as havens of refuge for wild life, but all states can greatly improve game conditions through forest conservation and effective enforcement of proper game laws.

THE SCHOOLS.

One of the problems before Governor Smith, demanding as much, if not more, explaining on his part than any other with which he has had to wrestle is that relating to the public school system. There was a bill introduced in the legislature, under Tammany auspices, the object of which, if carried to completion, would have meant that the department of education would have been thrown into politics and the appointment of the commissioner of education placed in the hands of the governor. While the governor has declared that he had no such intention, the truth remains that a measure which would have accomplished just that was introduced.

Frequent references to this bill have been annoying to the governor, and much of his time has been used in saying that it is preposterous to think any such purpose was entertained by the Democrats. He has told of a mistake that was made in the original draft of the measure, and he has dwelt on the fact that when the error was discovered the bill drafting room and all others who had anything to do with it were summoned and directed to make such alterations as were necessary to avoid any such provision.

There is no doubt whatever that eventually the alterations were made. But what the legislation in its original form would have done was detected by Republicans, and the opposition to the measure was as powerful that there was no possibility of its being carried to the introductory stage.

It is admitted that it is difficult to keep politics out of departmental matters, but until last winter the education department had not been made the target of attack. While Governor Smith has been very busy explaining, no explanation is required to make the people see what the end would be with a Tammany Democrat at the head of a department so sacred in the hearts of the whole people.

That Body of Yours

HAVE YOU A FLOATING KIDNEY?

Perhaps you have been told that you have a floating or movable kidney and you have worried a great deal about it.

You are run down in health, have dragging pains in the back with considerable loss of weight.

Now half the people who have a movable kidney do not know it, because they have practically no symptoms.

Of those who have symptoms an operation may sometimes be necessary, but unless your physician says it is urgent, just stop worrying for awhile and get busy.

The first thing to remember is that it is likely because you have been losing weight, are really too thin, that you are having trouble.

You see your kidneys are placed in a mass of fat in the back of the abdomen. This mass of fat actually holds your kidneys in place.

Should you begin to lose your fat, you will lose the fat that is holding the kidney in place, and it becomes a movable or floating kidney.

Now what should you do? Well your common sense tells you that if you get yourself into fair shape physically, by getting outdoors and by eating and sleeping, every part of your body is going to respond.

The fat will increase all over the body, and the fat holding the kidney in place will get its share.

Further, as I've mentioned before, if you will strengthen the waist muscles in front and behind, you will get an erect posture that will help to keep the kidney in place.

One simple exercise will develop the entire waist muscles, and if you want to get strong, and perhaps avoid the necessity of an operation this will be of wonderful help to you.

Put your hands up over your head as high as possible, then reach over and with the knees straight try and touch your toes with your hands. Then come up again to the position with hands high over the head and bend backward as far as you can.

Then bend forward again and so forth. Repeat this ten times night and morning.

Remember then, get built up generally, and strengthen your abdomen and back, and you may never hear again from your movable kidney.

TWO WEEKS TO BE OBSERVED NOV. 11-18.

The Sunday School Association and the Y. M. C. A. are uniting in observance of national father and son week, which also occurs November 11-18.

Wide distribution of publicity material is being employed by all three agencies to arouse a greatly extended interest throughout the state in these undertakings.

Ashokan, Oct. 30.—Mrs. Anna P. Ellender of New York city is spending a couple of weeks with her sister, Mrs. Charlotte E. Cudney.

Norman Ellender and Miss Louise Macormack of New York city, Fred Jacobus of Brooklyn, spent Sunday at Mrs. Charlotte E. Cudney's. All were agreeably surprised when Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Edwards, Miss Beatrice Edwards and Daniel Van Dyke called, having motored down from Middleburg, N. Y. The party then took a trip around the reservoir.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

Mrs. Margaret O'Neill died at her home on Canal street.

Oct. 30, 1913.—Mrs. John B. Winfield died at her home on Van Gaasbeck street.

Stephen S. Smith died at his home on West Pierpont street.

True Life.

To understand what he is, a man must first understand all this mysterious humanity, consisting of people such as himself, who do not understand one another. I now believe that my welfare and that of other people is only possible when each one labors not for himself, but for others, and only ceases to withhold his work from others, but gives it to anyone who needs it. That only is true life which carries on the life of the past, promotes the welfare of the present and prepares the welfare of the future.—Tolstoy.

Threw Away False Teeth.

Some one pulled the bell cord of a Midland train in England the other day and the engineer put on the brakes. The conductor went through the cars, inquiring the reason for the sudden stopping of the train. He noticed an old woman, who appeared highly excited. She explained to the conductor that she had been eating plums, and had been throwing the pits out the window one by one. The last plum she had eaten had caused her false teeth to become dislodged, and reaching up for the pit, the teeth instead of the pit came out her mouth.

She had thrown the teeth out the window, and would the conductor kindly hold the train until she went back to search for them? The conductor, however, pulled the bell cord and the train went on to its destination.

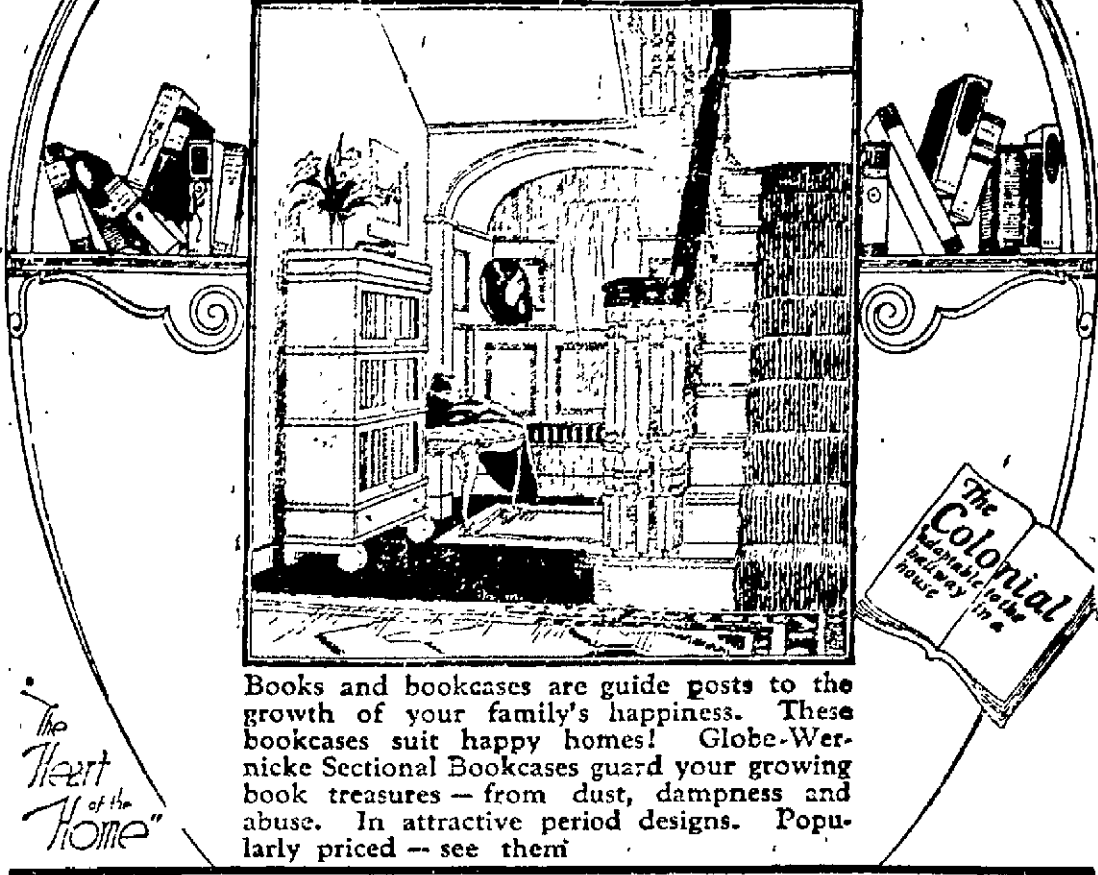

Washington to Conway.

The only letter Washington wrote to Conway was a note in which he pointed out that he had discovered Conway's discontent and malice against Washington. It ran: "A letter which I received last night contained the following paragraph: 'In a letter from General Conway to General Gates he says, "Heaven has determined to save your country, or a weak general and bad counselors would have ruined it." I am, sir, your humble servant, etc.' Washington did not ask Conway for help; on the contrary he had so poor an opinion of that officer that he wrote, "His merits exist more in his own imagination than in reality. His promotion would be a real act of injustice."

Meaning of Train Whistles.

According to a locomotive engineer, trains do not whistle at regular stops. At a crossing the signal is two long and one short blast; signal stops, one long blast by the engineer which the conductor answers with two short blasts; for calling in a flagman, traveling south and west, four long blasts; north and east, five long and one short blast.

PLANTS IN "BOOST KINGSTON" FILM

Many Participants and Scenario is Nearly Ready—Not Too Late to Get in It.

The scenario for the "Boost Kingston" picture that is to be made by the Keystone Industrial Film Company is nearing completion, according to an announcement today from the company's location headquarters at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

A number of leading factories have signified their intentions of participating in the civic film of the city and plans are being rushed so that the actual filming may be started in a few days. Among the firms that will be in the picture are the Fessenden Shirt Company, Kattermann & Mitchell, silk manufacturers; Charles Ramsey Company, manufacturers of piano hardware; L. Barth & Son, Inc., manufacturers of hotel supplies; and in the merchandising line such firms of Sullivan, Inc.; Wicks Laundry and others. It has also been arranged to show how the ice cream and bread and other food products that are eaten daily are prepared.

Unfortunately the time is limited for participation in this film and while Mr. Launt, the vice president, and his associates are doing everything in their power to see all of the industries it is felt that there will not be time to make arrangements with everyone interested in the picture. The Chamber of Commerce and several of the leading manufacturers and merchants are assisting Mr. Launt and they ask that anyone interested in having their place of business filmed communicate with the film people at the Stuyvesant Hotel at once.

From the plans which have been prepared this picture of Kingston will be tremendously interesting and will do much in boosting Kingston throughout the country. In this connection it might be well to mention that St. Louis has just had a picture made of a similar nature which the city itself arranged for at great expense. Because of the cooperative nature of the picture that is to be made here, there will be for Kingston a picture that will add greatly to its prestige, thanks to Keeney's Theater and the others interested.

BATH HOUSE CAPACITY DOUBLED AT SARATOGA

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, Oct. 30.—The capacity of the Lincoln Bath house on the state reservation at Saratoga Springs will be more than doubled when the new wing now under construction is completed, and the bathing facilities of all the bath houses will be increased 65 per cent.

The popularity of the state's mineral water baths at Saratoga has been so great for several years past that in spite of additions made every year, the accommodations have barely sufficed to accommodate the crowds at the height of the bathing season.

Sand in the Household.

Nothing is better than clean sand, mixed with warm water, for thoroughly cleaning the baby's nursing bottle, as it reaches every part of the inside when the bottle is shaken, scouring out every vestige of milk which may stick to the bottle. It is just as useful in cleaning any form of bottle or jar, whose interior is hard to get at. If some objectionable substance has fallen on the carpet or rug, it should be covered with sand before being taken up. Our grandmothers always kept sand in the kitchen for scouring the floor and they heated bags of sand to warm the beds, instead of water bottles. And everybody does not know that fine sand was used for drying ink long before blotting paper was thought of.

Elevator Bell Coward.

"If there's anything I loathe," remarked Bjorks, the New York Sun states, "it's an elevator bell coward. An elevator bell coward is one who comes to an elevator door at which you are awaiting the car and presses the bell button. Then if the car is slow in coming he loses his temper and steps again to the bell, this time ringing it continuously for some time or at frequent intervals. When the indicator shows the car is nearing the floor he draws back and lets you and your companions be the first to advance, thus giving the impression that you were the angry ringers and sometimes bringing down upon you the wrath of an irate elevator operator."

Character in the Face.

People with high foreheads and long thin faces are fussy and energetic, unnecessarily so, always buzzing round, and inclined to interfere with others. They are impatient and hasty, and apt to "rush" at things, doing them hastily and not thoroughly. The broad face is, on the other hand, inclined to take life easily and calmly, doing things thoroughly; it all depends on how broad it is, the broader the more lymphatic and lazy the nature. The happy medium is a fairly broad or oval face, with a wide forehead and slightly showing cheekbones, a square chin, and the ears set slightly back. This nature will have a well-balanced mind, sound common sense, and much reasoning ability.

Australian Kumquat.

The Australian lemon or desert kumquat is the hardest of all ever-green citrus fruits and grows in regions where the temperature sometimes falls nearly to zero.

MONROE BEING TRIED SEPARATELY

"Bad Bill" Monroe, Orange and Ulster county desperado, a criminal of many records, went to trial Monday in supreme court in Poughkeepsie before Justice A. H. F. Seeger and a jury for the killing of Andrew Barrett, hermit of Fishkill Mountain, about July 23.

Although he was indicted jointly with a youthful companion, Harold Barrett, nephew of the Fishkill recluse, they will not be tried together. Harold Barrett, it is expected, will be the star witness for the prosecution, having confessed shortly after his capture to acts believed to implicate Monroe definitely.

It was on Wednesday, July 25, that the body of Andrew Barrett, known as the "Woodchuck," because of his isolation, was found in his shack on Fishkill Mountain. The shack had but one room. It was tucked away in a gully in the mountain almost overgrown with underbrush. Several skins were nailed to the outside wall and on the front porch was a rusty tin basin and a washboard.

The hermit was about 47 years old, with dark matted hair that fell to his shoulders, and a face hidden by a bushy beard. With the members of the Yonkers Yacht Club, which owns a place a mile from Barrett's, "Chuck" was a favorite. Every morning he took milk from the farm of Townsend Y. Shook. On Sunday night, July 22, he complained to members of the club that he was not feeling well, having been subject to asthma attacks.

Monday morning saw the omission of Barrett's daily trips. Tuesday and Wednesday passed in like manner and on Wednesday evening Edward Shaffer Yonkers police sergeant, visiting in the Yonkers Club, and Edward Cunningham started out to look for the hermit, believing he might be the victim of an attack of asthma.

The men walked to Barrett's shack in the deepening dusk and reached it about 8:30 o'clock. The door was locked. Striking a match they found a screw driver stuck through the staple. The door was pried open and in a corner they glimpsed a huddled bundle, swathed in dirty sheets and cloths.

Lamps in the cabin would not light and in the sputtering light of matches the men unwound the sheets and found Barrett. His head with the left side of his face cut away. His feet had been drawn backward and his arms tied to his legs. Everything available in the cabin had been used to bind him.

An ax to the bloody blade of which hair still adhered, was found in an abandoned corner of the shack. The home made bed of native wood had been pulled to pieces and the lining of newspapers which passed as wall paper, had been torn in what might have been the attacker's frenzied hunt for money believed to have been hoarded by the hermit.

Barrett had more than $1,200 in banks in Beacon and Fishkill, it was learned. Since the previous December he had not made a deposit and it was thought he had kept the money in the shack. Two Liberty bonds were missing, it also developed.

Investigation of the authorities showed that in addition to a fractured skull Barrett had been strangled.

Small Chair in Kitchen.

A small chair, such as is used in kindergartens, is a convenience in a kitchen, says a woman writer. "I find it more comfortable, when preparing fruits and vegetables for canning, to sit on this low chair with jars around me and one in my lap, than sitting on the ordinary chair and tiring my arms and shoulders by reaching up to the table height," she says. "I also find that by standing on this chair I can reach many things just out of reach and not have to strain for them or lift a heavy chair to stand on."

Poetic Interpretation.

Poetry interpreters in two ways: It interprets by expressing with magical felicity the physiognomy and movement of the outer world, and it interprets by expressing, with inspired conviction, the ideas and laws of the inward world of man's moral and spiritual nature. In other words, poetry is interpretative both by having natural magic in it, and by having moral profundity.—Matthew Arnold.

Bible's Only French Word.

The only French word in the Bible is "bruit," meaning a noise or disturbance. It occurs in Jeremiah 10:22, and the reason it got there was because Norman-French was the official language at the time of the Bible's first translation into English.

Rich Fabrics Are Favored in Paris

Taffeta, Velvet and Chiffon Among Materials Liked for Gay Effects.

"After all the vicissitudes of the war Paris is still queen of the world of fashion," says a prominent fashion authority, "in that she cannot be dethroned. The French express themselves artistically in the art of dress even when handicapped by a lack of materials and shortage of workers. Dress is at once the art and industry of the French people, they have no rivals because they are fitted both by temperament and training to express themselves in harmonies of line and color."

After a year in Paris this widely known authority in the sartorial world, makes the above comment on the activities of the world's fashion center. She returned a short time ago after having been closely in touch with all the great houses of Paris during her stay. Some of the older houses such as Worth and Doucet she has visited at intervals for the past 35 years. In speaking of the trends of present fashions this authority suggests that the advice so often heard in Paris should be followed by every woman.

"If one should ask the great couturiers of Paris what colors are fashionable colors, the reply is, 'The color that suits you best, madame. Browns are very popular, but if you do not wear brown becomingly, ignore it—wear the color that is most becoming to you.'"

"The great variety of colors now offered," continued the recent Paris visitor, "by the best authorities literally invite every woman to choose for herself her own particular color."

Straight-Line Prevails.
The straight-line silhouette prevails in the leading houses. Although every house shows a few crinolines, they have not gained a great favor at this time. Rather the tendency is showing itself in an increased fullness in afternoon and evening gowns. The full skirt of a soft fabric, velvet or chiffon, is a favorite with houses famous for youthful effects. Brocades and the effective use of lace and silver and gold tissue lend a richness to a season of velvets.

"The circular effect is used so skillfully that skirts fall very straight, hardly showing the circular effect, but a fullness that clings close to the figure."

It is observed that if one wears a belt at all it is worn very low; in fact the belt has lost its former function of marking the waistline and is now a girdle, very narrow or very wide, worn low on the hips, so low one often sits upon it.

Coats are long or short, as the occasion demands. The coat may be very short for the street or three-quarters length or longer.

Long Coats Over Tea Frocks.
The well-dressed woman is giving attention to the long coat worn above a dress slim and straight to the knees of gold or silver cloth with a deep flounce of the fabric of the coat. On the street she is conservatively dressed. When she slips off her coat she is fittingly gowned for tea or bridge. Another combination the authority described as a long coat of black velvet worn over a long straight gown of crepe, the blue of the virgin's robe, with a 12-inch hem of black velvet. The blue crepe was applied with black velvet cut-out motifs of flowers and leaves. This was applied with the buttonhole stitch.

The Chinese influence is not as great in fashions as the Egyptian. It is pointed out that the Egyptian influence is carried out in lines of drapery and in colors rather than in the printed fabrics. Purple in the petunia shades often is combined with blue, warm purple shades often enrich black, and virgin blue is combined with purple and silver.

"The best dressed women in Paris," insists the authority, "belong to the American colony; the visitors, tourists and distinguished of the world add to the gay picture. While a vast part of the city of Paris is busy with providing lovely creations for the world the loyal French woman of the old regime would consider it unpatriotic to be well dressed while her country is in distress. The little midinette who used to be the picture of style in her simple dress and well-shod feet today is a shabby little person with unkempt hair, cotton hose, ill-clad feet, in the simplest sort of dress. Those who know the old Paris and the Paris since the war see a change of spirit. In a leading millinery house models of hats are shown, the customer chooses a hat. Then her head is measured and the hat made.

To Lead World of Fashion.
"The lack of money to buy a stock of materials and the shortage of help in the workrooms have made this method of business necessary. The thrifty Frenchman cannot afford to have materials made up unless he has a market. He is doing business on small capital. Since the war women have entered many other fields of industry, so the milliners and dressmakers have to consider a change in business methods.

"Among the older houses, Worth and Doucet, the pride of traditions of the house spurs these designers to a great effort to lead the world of fashion. The sons of Worth have a pride of succession as great as that of the aristocracy of blood. Luvyn is noted for that touch of femininity that characterizes her gowns. Jenny is the house of youth, Callot tends toward magnificent fabrics and gorgeous effects. Molyneux is one of the new houses gaining prestige since the war. Douce Soeurs clings to that exquisite handwork made famous by that house."

Straight-Around Collars.

Marabout is having quite a vogue and is shown in straight-around collars and in bands of different lengths, according to a fashion writer in the New York Times. Some are long and wide, to be worn as practical shoulder scarfs, and these are in black and many beautiful shades. With the tailleur it is distinctly swaggy to wear a knitted or woven muffler of wool or silk. It may be had in smooth weaves or angora, mauve, gray, brown, black, white and in fancy stripes, recalling the genuine Roman scarf.

Time was when no gentleman ever used anything but a white linen handkerchief. It must be white, sheer and very fine to be the correct thing; the hem must be wide. That must have been very long ago, for colored mouchoirs and those with gray borders are now an accepted story. These, to insure the colors being fast, were never inexpensive, but they are now to be had in the department stores, all-linen handkerchiefs by the yard.

A border is woven around each square the size of a lady's handkerchief. All one has to do is cut them apart on a marked line and roll an infinitesimal hem on two sides, the other two being self-edge-finish. They are a novelty and they are cheap.

Styles in gloves seldom vary for women of refined taste. Somehow, according to the Anglo-Saxon standard, there is something plebeian about a fancy glove. But some of the gaudiest this season have open work cuffs and are elaborated with fancy stitches.

To Help Add Beauty.
Several other new ideas are very attractive. Vanity cases, powder boxes to carry in one's purse, rouge tubes, eyelash cultivators and a thousand and one trifles that cater to the feminine desire to be beautiful and well-dressed, are a profitable feature in the large stores and specialty shops. A vanity case may cost a ridiculously large sum, but there are some that are pretty and practical and may be had at a modest price.

Exotic fashions include such minor luxuries as perfume, which are important to express fully the "feeling," once a woman takes a style for her own. So the large shops have augmented their section of foreign novelties with showy displays of very expensive and subtle odors in bottles of many shapes. There is mysterious blend of sandalwood from the East, put up and labeled at Paris, to be sure, but conveying a suggestion of Egypt.

Those Fast Drivers.

The road being narrow and dangerous, the guest was overjoyed to find his host a careful driver. As they gingerly climbed a treacherous incline another car shot by. The guest shivered.

"How foolish that man was to pass us on this precipice."

"Wasn't he?"

"Why did he risk his life like that?"

"Just wanted to show us he had a fast car," responded the careful driver. "But I'll show him."

And he proceeded to step on it.

The Biggest Surprise of Your Life

YOU will be surprised and delighted with the wonderful lustre your sheets, pillow cases, table-cloths and napkins have after being starched with Linit, the remarkable new starch discovery.

Linit gives a soft, pliable finish that makes even the most ordinary cotton goods look and feel like expensive linen.

This remarkable starch is made by an improved process that keeps it fluid after it cools. You are never troubled with clotting, smearing or "blistering." Linit penetrates the fabric, helps prevent wear and strengthens the material. You will find it a hundred per cent easier to iron with Linit.

And your Linit-starched garments remain clean and fresh much longer.

Important to You

AFTER Linit is thoroughly dissolved according to directions, and is ready for use, you will notice it is THIN and FREE-RUNNING LIKE WATER—with a "milky" appearance. Be sure to use Linit according to directions, and unlike other starches, you will not find Linit stiff or jelly-like. This is one reason why Linit goes much further than the old-fashioned kind of starches.

Linit costs 10c at all grocers—Get a package and begin the modern way of starching your fabrics. Perfection in starching guaranteed or your money refunded.

GOVERNOR'S HOME IS MODERNIZED

10,000 Being Expended on Interior of Executive Mansion—Visitors Praise Taste of Governor and Mrs. Smith.

Telegraph to The Freeman: Albany, Oct. 30.—For the first time in 30 years extensive improvements, through the acquisition of new furniture and decorations, have been made in the executive mansion, the home of the governor of New York state.

Much of the old furniture which has been in use since the days of Governor Flower have given way to modern kind. Hangings and window decorations that have been better days have all been removed.

The 1923 legislature at the request of the Board of Estimate and Control, appropriated $75,000 for the improvements.

Persons who have visited the mansion lately praise the taste of Governor and Mrs. Alfred E. Smith in their selection of the decorations and new pieces of furniture.

Acting upon the suggestion of Joseph S. Wilson, state research director, the Board of Estimate and Control has had the old furniture shipped to the Brooklyn State Hospital, a comparatively new institution where it can be used to great advantage.

The new decorations in the main hall are striking. The old red velvet hangings and the red walls have given way to those of softer hue. New electric lights have taken the place of the massive chandeliers that were used when gas lighting was modern. The new lighting effects give an impression of quiet elegance. The library where the visitors are usually ushered upon entering the mansion has been completely changed. The woodwork has been grained, the ceilings redecorated, and also the walls. With the new furniture this is one of the most home like rooms in the mansion.

A PLEA FOR VOTES
FOR BOYS' BOND ISSUE

(Contributed).

A week from Sunday, November 11, is the fifth anniversary of the signing of the armistice that ended the greatest war in the world's history.

Do you remember the wild celebration when the news was received? Do you remember the promises made when the boys went away? Promises made again when the armistice was signed; and still again when the boys came back? Nothing was too good for them. Anything that they wanted would be theirs for the asking.

Nothing was asked, until three years ago, when the voters were asked to give their approval on the referendum held at that time; on the proposition passed by the legislature to sell bonds in order to pay a bonus to New York state's own men and women who had answered the call of duty.

As everyone knows the voters of the empire state responded with a will, carrying the proposition by 781,648 voters. Again, as everyone knows, the bond issue was declared unconstitutional, and regardless of the fact that the voters had put their stamp of approval upon the proposition, it could not be carried out.

Not daunted by the unforeseen difficulty, the 1922 and 1923 legislature unanimously voted to amend the constitution in order that the wishes of New York state's citizens could be carried out.

This coming election will bring the amendment before the voters. All that is necessary to make it effective is for a majority of the voters to carry out their action of 1920.

Will you Mr. Voter, Mrs. Voter and New Voter, the whole Voter family, stand by your previous action, and show the ex-service men and women that contrary to the statement that "A Republic soon forgets its defenders," New York state has not, nor will it forget its sons and daughters who answered their country's call in 1917 and 1918.

The Accident
of Matrimony

MANY marriages result from incidents like this:

A man accidentally gets a glimpse through the dance floor crowd of a woman's beautiful hair. He seeks her acquaintance. When introduced, he is further impressed by the soft loveliness of her hands—

Modern women know how big are these apparently little items of personal appearance in making first impressions on others. And realizing, for example, that their hands are made red, rough and coarse by the use of common household soap which irritates the skin, they are as careful about the kind of household soap they use as they are about their toilet soap.

This is why thousands of intelligent women always insist upon Kirkman's Soap for all their household and laundry purposes. They know that Kirkman's is as harmless to their hands as is the most exquisite toilet soap.

KIRKMAN'S Soap is free from lye to redden and coarsen your hands. It is made of the finest and purest materials. It contains no adulterants such as starch, talcum powder or water glass, which have no cleansing value.

Kirkman's is the most thorough cleanser you can get. Its unique cleansing properties are such that most of the "elbow grease" is in the suds when you use it.

For the sake of your hands, insist upon Kirkman's Soap today.

LATONIA WILL KEEP ZEV BUSY

So Many Other Good Ones Entered and Fact That Race Is Mile and Three-Quarters Long May Make Conqueror of Papyrus Third Choice.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 30.—"Don't get the idea that the $50,000 Latonia championship to be run November 3 is going to be another of those two horse affairs. Zev, conqueror of Papyrus and many other thoroughbreds of lesser note, is entered and will start. So is My Own, rival of the Sinclair colt, both in the press and on the track. The race will offer opportunity for a settlement of the argument that has been raging for weeks—viz: which horse has the more foot. But that does not mean it will be a two horse race by any means.

Kentucky is no respecter of other folks' horses, even if those horses, like Zev, come from the Blue Grass. Last year Latonia was all ribbed up for a two horse race between Morvich and Whiskaway only to see Thibodaux whip Morvich and collar Whiskaway for a brilliant, if losing, battle in the stretch. This year Kentucky sorta figures on another upset.

In Memoriam, handsome bay son of McGee and Enchantress, owned by Carl Wiedeman, of Newport, is picked to do the upsetting. This colt, fast and a stayer, was touted to win the Kentucky Derby last spring, but turned up slightly off edge and fell down on the job. Through the summer Wiedeman has had him in the hands of R. J. Gilmore, acknowledge a king pin among trainers.

Since Gilmore has had the colt, in Memoriam has won several good races and won them impressively. Two weeks ago he finished second to the imported five year old Chacolet in the $50,000 Kentucky Special. He would have won it if Jockey Barrett had not been so busy watching Shuffle Along and Knobbie, inside him on the rail, that he could not see Chacolet whistling along outside. Finishing behind were Cherry Pie, Untidy and other good ones. The race at a mile and three-sixteenths was run in 1:56 3-5, which is very tidy time. Since then, Gilmore has been busy nursing in Memoriam along for track work on November 3. Wiedeman proclaims his McGee colt the best 3-year-old in the land, Zev and My Own especially included. He has offered to water a large sum his colt can beat the other pair, and has refused to sell in Memoriam for any amount of money.

Kentucky likes in Memoriam. Harry Payne Whitney's colt, of which much was expected at various times this season. If Enchantment is right, at last, he should be very much in the running. And then there are some others that Kentucky likes, including a few which have been beaten by Zev at a mile and a quarter or less. Kentucky likes them because this race is to be a mile and three quarters, which is an awfully long race, and because the Blue Grass State still refuses to believe that Zev is real bred-in-the-bone distance runner.

At any rate the Blue Grass State looks for at least a three horse race with some other colts having a chance against Zev and My Own along with in Memoriam. It would not be at all surprising, since in Memoriam is so well regarded, if Zev turned out to be a third choice in the wagering, for My Own, despite the fact that he has not raced in these parts, is highly favored.

Lack of Good Twirling Is Handicap to Speaker

Lack of good pitching prevented the Cleveland Indians from giving the New York Yankees a stiff fight for the pennant this year. Knowing this, Manager Speaker and Owner Barnard are already building up their staff.

One youngster already receiving a tryout with the club is Jimmy Sullivan, obtained from Decatur in the Three-I league.

Sullivan has had a look at a big league job once before. He started with Baltimore and was sent to Mobile for seasoning in 1921. The Athletic scouts figured he had the makings and so Connie Mack bought him from the Iowa club, only to send him to Portland.

Decatur obtained him in a trade with Portland last July and Sullivan won seven games and lost but three before the Indians grabbed him.

Making of Shoe.
In shoe factories possessing the most modern machinery a shoe can be made complete in twenty minutes, though it passes through over a hundred separate operations.

Hewitt to Enter Army

"They" Hewitt, former University of Pittsburgh football, will enter the United States Military Academy this fall and it is dollars to peanuts he will make the team without much trouble.

He has lots of speed back of his 200 pounds and the Navy line is apt to be in for a tough afternoon when it encounters the Army at New York November 24.

TRAVIS JACKSON IS REMARKABLE PLAYER

Hugh Jennings Pays Compliment to Giant Rookie.

"Travis Jackson is the most remarkable young ball player developed in the majors this year."

There you have the opinion of Hugh Jennings, assistant to Manager John McGraw of the New York Giants. It is some compliment, coming from so able a critic as Jennings.

Travis Jackson is the young infielder who has proved such a valuable man for the New York Giants this year. To Jackson perhaps, more than any other player on the club, should go the honor of keeping the Giants in the race.

Travis Jackson.

When Dave Bancroft, star shortstop of the Giants, was forced out of the lineup for over two months because of illness, it was figured the Giants were out of it. No position is harder to fill. To get some youngster to plug up the gap made by the departure of a star like Bancroft from the lineup seemed to be a task too much.

Jackson stepped right in and filled the bill, despite the fact that he has had only about a year's experience in professional ball. While he didn't do as Bancroft would have done, still he played a great game for an untried recruit.

Since the return of Bancroft he has filled in at third for the ailing Grob, and has played second in a number of games. His work for the Giants in a pinch certainly bears out the nice things that Jennings says about him.

Wally Schang Has "More Nerve Than Any Burglar"

"Sandow" Schang they call him—with the accent on the "Sand." Meaning Walter, who catches for the Yankees. That's just one of the names. Indecent but expressive ball-players refer to him as a tough bird, a fighting freak and as having "more nerve than a burglar."

Sometimes he's called worse than that, especially when he blocks off an ambitious base runner at the plate. Schang does that. He's not afraid of shots, slams or spikes.

That's the reason why he caught two games on the last western trip of the Yankees with a cracked rib and the muscles torn from several others. Two assistant catchers were shot from under Miller Huggins, and Schang had to get in the game.

Nothing at all in Schang's life, says Ed Barrows, who used to be his manager in Boston. It seems that Walter got a bad break on the wrist one day, and they looked about for another catcher. None was in sight.

"Go ahead and catch," said Barrow. "You can do it. We'll have an X-ray taken tonight and see what's the matter."

So Schang caught. That night they took the X-ray. It showed no break then, but it did show one, knelt and healed, of three months before.

Wasn't Informed.

Mrs. New—"Why did you come to me, Ellen, if you didn't intend to stay?" Ellen—"I'm to blame, ma'am. But I've only just discovered that I'm not in the social register."

BASKETBALL AT ST. MARY'S HALL

Season Opens Friday Night With St. Peter's Furnishing the Opposition—Thanksgiving Eve Dance Wednesday, November 28.

Friday evening of this week at St. Mary's school hall the basketball season for 1923-24 will open. It will be remembered in basketball circles that the Junior Holy Name Society team of St. Mary's last season was undefeated, having played a strong schedule.

This season the basketball program will be conducted on a much larger scale, games to be played regularly every Friday evening with some of the best teams throughout the Hudson Valley. There will be two games each Friday evening, the preliminary contest will see the Junior Holy Name team in action and the main struggle will be between the young men of the parish, belonging to the Holy Name Society, and some other strong quintet throughout the valley.

Reporting for practice for the first time were about seven players, who have had a great deal of experience in the court game. Just who will represent the teams have not as yet been announced.

On Friday evening of this week, the opening night, the teams of St. Peter's parish will furnish the opposition and a great battle is expected. Following the games dancing will be in order, music to be supplied by Balfe's orchestra.

The large floor in the school has been put in readiness for this season's schedule and the players have been nicely uniformed. To help the basketball team along in its work, the members have arranged for a Thanksgiving eve dance to be held at the hall Wednesday evening, November 28. Balfe's orchestra has also been secured for this occasion. Committees have been appointed to complete arrangements for this coming affair, which the society will endeavor to put across first class.

At 11 o'clock delicious refreshments were served after which the guests departed for their homes, wishing Mrs. Hoffman many more happy birthdays, and vowing Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman royal entertainers. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wilber, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilber, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wilber, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ford, Mrs. L. OUT MEN IN SOUTHERN ULSTER

Begin Wednesday on Scout Demonstration Lot Opposite Armory—Parade Nov. 10.

Today Scout Executive Nesslage Campaign Manager Gordon are beginning the southern part of the work, interviewing men at Marlborough, Milton, Esopus, Gardiner, Ulster, Modena, Ulster Park, Ulster, West Park, winding up a meeting at New Paltz tonight. When full details of the Boy Scout campaign will be gone into the work organized for that section of the county. New troops are being organized at New Paltz and Clintondale. Saturday afternoon Gordon and Nesslage spoke before the second annual meeting of the study of religion and community work at Clintondale.

Notice has been sent out to troops Kingston calling four scouts from each troop to report Wednesday evening after school to clean up the armory lot opposite the armory at Marlborough and Hoffman street. At this work has been completed a sawdust yard will be installed in which models of fires, tents and other things with which scouts work. This work will be in charge of Carlton Preston, chairman of the Boy Scout demonstration committee. Mr.
Preston has been invited to meet with the American Legion this evening to go over the details of the Boy Scout parade which will be held on November 10.

A meeting of the campaign executive committee will be held tomorrow evening in Ward Everett's office, which time team captains will be selected and other details of the campaign discussed.

The following endorsement has been received from Chief of Police J. J. O'Donnell:

"The Boy Scout Movement in Kingston is one of the greatest movements ever launched in our city and deserves the co-operation of every thinking citizen who has the welfare of our boys at heart."

The movement is just one more step in advance of our boys toward true citizenship. It builds up the character, broadens their minds, and puts into them ambition which will tend to make them the best of citizens.

"No Boy Scout ever forgets the lessons taught him to respect the laws of the nation and of nature, to respect the aged and to respect the rights of others. If a boy becomes a gentleman in his early days he will carry this asset with him through life and will be the pride of his family and neighbors, a citizen whom all will respect."

"The Boy Scout Movement needs the aid of all good citizens in order that it may continue the work—a work which, if abandoned, would be a serious loss to Kingston."

MRS. STOKES'S MOTHER TO BE A WITNESS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 30.—Mrs. Arthur Scott Miller, of Denver, gray-haired mother of pretty Helen Elwood Stokes, defendant in the divorce action brought by W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire turfman, will take the witness stand in her daughter's behalf, Attorney Samuel Untermyer announced today.

Mrs. Miller will explain away, if possible, the conflicting testimony of Edgar T. Wallace, "the man in the case," who denied he ever had proposed marriage to her daughter, and the story told by Mrs. Stokes herself at an earlier hearing of the case in which the proposal was mentioned, Untermyer said.

"Mrs. Miller will testify," Untermyer said, "that, like all mothers, she believed her daughter, before her marriage to Stokes, the most beautiful girl in the world. Every man who paid her the slightest attention in the opinion of Mrs. Miller, had a desire to marry the girl. Wallace, Mrs. Miller will say, paid some compliment to her daughter, and this was mistaken by Mrs. Miller for a proposal of marriage. Mrs. Miller will say it was she who told her daughter Wallace had asked her for her hand."

Wallace, the co-respondent named by Stokes, testified yesterday he never proposed to Mrs. Stokes when she was Helen Elwood.

PROBE OF VETS' BUREAU DEEPENS

Committee Turns To Purchase Of Excelsior Springs Hospital—Government Records Missing.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 30.—Senatorial investigators of the United States Veterans Bureau delved into history today in their quest for further evidence of waste, mismanagement and corruption in the conduct of the bureau.

Turning away temporarily from investigation of the acts of Charles R.
Forbes, director of the bureau under the Harding administration, the committee turned the spot-light on some of the transactions negotiated in the closing days of the Wilson administration.

The deal the committee was particularly curious about was the one in which F. L. Morse, political leader, sold the government a hospital site at Excelsior Springs, Mo., under a peculiar form of contract. The public health service condemned this transaction, but notwithstanding the purchase price was later increased by $13,000.

An air of mystery was added to the case when it was revealed that some important documents concerning it have disappeared from the government's files. The missing documents include the government's copy of the contract, written in the form of a "letter of agreement," signed by Morse and former Assistant Secretary of the Treasurer Ewing La Porte, who was in charge of war risk insurance. Instead, investigators found a paper, purported to be signed by Morse, which showed a $13,000 variation in the purchase price originally agreed upon and the one finally written into the contract.
Testimony already before the committee shows that former Secretary of the Treasury Houston approved the deal as one of his last official acts.
The negotiations, however, were carried on through La Porte.

Morse was scheduled to take the witness stand today to relate his part in the transaction. Colonel William S. Terriberry, a government expert meanwhile, was ready to resume testifying as to the "unusual" conditions of the purchase contract.

This contract, it was learned, authorized Morse to purchase additional land near his Excelsior Springs home, enlarge the building into a hospital and then sell to the government on the basis of payments through rentals. The rentals were to cover ten years, with Morse getting $90,000 rent the first year.
This system, it was said, was used because the treasury department had no authority to purchase hospitals outright.

Earth's Age Is "Set."

After long investigation, scientists have announced that the earth has been in about its present state for two or three billion years. Geological measurements previously made were all lost in a maze of time before they had traced the history of the planet beyond 100,000,000 years. The present discovery rests on the rate by which radioactive substances change form.
These materials are not permanent,
but in time turn into lead.—Popular Mechanics.

Lightning's Pranks.

Lightning plays pranks which are not so easily explained. Some years ago a Russian steamer crossing the Black sea was struck by lightning three separate times within seven minutes. Though set on fire, her crew managed to put out the flames and get her back to port. A wheat ship on Lake Huron was struck twice within three minutes, each time in the same spot. The second flash set her on fire and she sank.

Zebra Spider.

The zebra spider uses all the wiles of the hunter in stalking its prey. Going along a fence the creature sees the quarry and steps down into a crack, along which it runs, hidden from the other. Once or twice it peeps out to take the lay of the land. At last it fastens a line to the wood and makes a leap at its prey. If it misses it merely swings to and fro on the end of the line.

In Metropolitan League With 10 Points—Three Kingston Players Among Ten Leading Scorers.

That the Metropolitan Basketball League is going to furnish some real basketball this season is proven in the past week of playing, the result of which there is a triple tie for first place, between Kingston, Trenton and Brooklyn.

Wednesday evening at the local armory court Greenpoint will make its first appearance here. The Morogewick machine will have a good opportunity of breaking the tie and become the leaders. Friday of this week at Trenton the Kingston team will tussle with the strong quintet representing that city.

Banks of Brooklyn jumped from sixth place to the leading position in the point scoring race, taking the place occupied by Benny Borgman, who dropped to fourth place. Malone of Yonkers and Campbell of Trenton are tied for second place. Riccarda, Charlie Powers and C. Husta, local players, are included in the list of the ten leading scorers of the league to date:

New York, Oct. 30.—Among the local sharpshooters, who claim to see all, know all, the tip is out that Willie Hoppe will descend at the end of the present week from his throne as world's championship billiardist, probably never again to return. Hoppe's present form, it is contended, is so unimpressive as to preclude all possibility of the champion winning the international 18.2 ball line affair, now in progress at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Jake Schaefer, former champion; Roger Conti, of France, and Edouard Moremans of Belgium, are fancied by the wise men as probable successors to the champion and the prevailing opinion is getting plenty of action from the "know all" source. Of the others, entered, Welker Cochran of San Francisco is thought to lack the necessary perseverance and Erich Hagenlocher of Germany, the necessary ability to finish at the top. But on a "Hoppe against the field" proposition, they will be factors and perhaps not altogether minor ones.

Hoppe averaged less than twenty in beating Hagenlocher in the open match last night. He couldn't get away with that again against any man in the tournament, the German included. He, in fact, will have to raise that average by at least ten to dispose of Conti and Schaefer.

The latter, it is said, is playing in the form he showed at Chicago two years ago when he broke Hoppe down with a seance of super-billiards and ended Willie's prolonged domination of the green baize cloth. The famous Hoppe "fiddle" in which the player "saw" indefinitely on a comparatively easy shot make its appearance in this tournament. A misstep at a crucial moment also gave evidence that Hoppe's stoicism had been broken down.

Willie, of course, came back last year, beating Schaefer and the field. But Schaefer probably never again will wield as astute a cue as he did in that tournament, particularly in the final match where he had a chance to carry the issue into an extra meeting with Hoppe.

On the contrary, Schaefer is declared to be playing better than ever. He will not have to be that good unless Hoppe pulls himself together, the sharpshooters aver.
